Ophthalmic Panacea!
IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST WONDERFUL EYE HEALER that has yet been discovered
It CURES the most stubborn and hopeless cases of CHRONIC INFLAMMATIONS, GRANULATED LIDS, FILMS, &c., as has been sufficiently demonstrated during the few months in which it has been brought into public notice. The proprietor is so fully convinced of its INFALLIBILITY that he WARRANTS A CURE OR REFUNDS THE MONEY. It can do the eyes no harm, and a trial of it is therefore without injury or expense to the patient if a cure is not effected.
It has cured cases of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIFTEEN, and even EIGHTEEN YEARS' standing in Harrisburg, Linn county, Oregon, and its vicinity, to which the following persons will bear witness:

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

DATES TO APRIL 12.

Washington News.

NEW YORK, April 11—The Times' special says the indications are that the Senate will remain in session for two or three weeks. The Alabama treaty will be thoroughly discussed. Sumner insists that the negotiations must begin "de novo," and that as the only admissible basis England must concede that her action was wrong.

The new whisky law provides that builders of unstamped tobacco, snuff, cigars, etc., manufactured before November 23d, and after July 20th 1869, shall stamp the same within sixty days. When proof is furnished of the payment of the tax on such goods, the amount of the tax is to be refunded, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. This matter will be contested in the courts. Whisky is permitted to remain in bonded warehouses until June 30th. The taxes are one per cent per gallon for every month after April 20th.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—It is understood that a large number of nominations, including diplomatic and consular, are ready to be sent to the Senate.

The working men of the District of Columbia have tendered Senator Sprague a manifestation of their approval of his course in their behalf in the Senate.

Preparations are making for many removals in all the departments. Many members of Congress will remain here some time on behalf of office-seeking constituents.

Commissioner Delano has decided that dealers converting plug tobacco into smoking tobacco by cutting or rolling, or in any other manner keeping it for sale, shall be constituted manufacturers and must pay tax and give bonds as such.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The Times' special says Grant will withdraw the name of Elwood Evans as Assistant Justice of Washington Territory, having discovered that he attended the Philadelphia Convention in 1866.

It is said that Congressman Pile, of Missouri, will be appointed Minister to Brazil.

Commissioner Delano telegraphs Collector Spike, of the Third District, instructions virtually exempting brokers from the tax demanded by Assessor Webster.

The Herald states that General Sickles has accepted the Mexican mission. His name will probably be sent in for confirmation to-day.

The Times says a large batch of nominations, mostly foreign appointments, will be sent into the Senate to-morrow. Many leading appointments, such as that of Motley to England, Curtin to Russia, Shellabarger to Portugal and Sickles to Mexico, have been agreed on for some time, but withheld till a large part of the foreign list was adjusted, as the number of first class men applying for various positions have been such that there has been difficulty in making a selection to suit all considerations of merit, geographical location and political preference.

CHICAGO, April 12.—The Republican's special says the officers of the Union and Central Pacific roads, have concluded not to have an excursion to the Pacific this summer, not having sufficient rolling stock nor eating accommodations for a large party.

The Eight Hour Law.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Delegates from several trades organizations from various parts of the country met here to consider the eight hour wages question and adopted resolutions expressive of their views. It is probable that the unanimous adoption of the eight hour resolution by the House and the favorable consideration which occurred in the Senate will advise heads of departments to decide that there shall be no corresponding reduction in wages. The delegates will wait on the President to-day.

Reconstruction.

It is said that recent legislation on reconstruction has already produced the most favorable effect in Virginia. Letters from Richmond say that a load of depression has been removed. Business is recovering. It is believed that the material interest of the State will be advanced many millions thereby.

Cabada and the Alabama Claims

WASHINGTON, April 11.—A project of Canadian annexation in the settlement of the Alabama claims, with the joint consent of England and the Colonists, begins to attract attention in Government and diplomatic circles. Some believe it likely to become a prominent feature in Grant's administration, and various circumstances encourage a belief of the possibility of the scheme as the surest mode of harmonizing interests and affording a basis of permanent peace.

Suicide of an Army Officer.

BALTIMORE, April 11.—Lieut. Col. Pollett, of the 4th regiment of artillery, committed suicide on Friday evening at Fort McHenry, by shooting himself with a pistol. He had been confined to bed for several weeks by illness.

New York News.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Lathrop, Luddington & Co. were yesterday declared involuntary bankrupts by the United States Court.

The population of New York is estimated at 1,118,767.

The Board of Health report that the members of three families in one row were stricken with small pox yesterday.

Steamboat Disaster

MEMPHIS, April 11.—The Appeal's Little Rock special says the steamer G. A. Thompson, from Cincinnati, Ohio, for Little Rock, is reported to have struck a snag near Pine Bluff on Friday and sunk. Seventeen lives are reported lost. The boat and cargo are a total loss.

The Hitch in the Indiana Legislature.

CHICAGO, April 11.—Seventeen Republican members of the Indiana Legislature propose to guarantee to the Democrats that the Fifteenth Amendment will not be taken up without one day's notice, but the Democratic caucus refused to accept the proposition and it is not known how the imbroglio will terminate. Senator Steins proposes that the Republicans having waited five days, as required by the Constitution, shall now organize and proceed to business as the legal Legislature. This causes much discussion and is by many favorably considered.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

PARIS, April 10.—In the Senate to-day, defensive measures were proposed by the Government and generally approved. Marshal Neil said it was the duty of the country in time of peace to secure safety.

LONDON, April 11.—The papers say the Jubilee will be celebrated at Rome with great splendor, by the Pope at St. Peters. The Te Deum will be sung in the presence of the Cardinals, foreign Ambassadors and nobilities from all parts of Europe. An immense congregation is expected. In the evening the city will be illuminated.

Horace Mann used to tell a story of a conversation he once had with an inmate of the Lunatic Asylum, at Worcester Massachusetts, whose peculiar mania resulted from an inordinate development of the bump of self-esteem. "What's the news, sir?" Has anything unusual happened of late, since I enquired with a consequential air. Mann kept pretending to recollect that a fire or so had occurred a few days previous, gave him some account of it, mentioning that on the sea coast it was very severe, several vessels having been driven ashore and wrecked with loss of many lives. "Can you remember, sir, what night in the week all that happened?" eagerly inquired the listener. Mann said he believed it was the night of Tuesday. "Ah!" said the inmate with an air of solemnity mingled with triumph, and lowering his voice to a whisper, "I can account for it, sir—that was the night I whistled so."

A Wisconsin veteran with but one leg lately fell head foremost down a well and broke his neck, but his remaining leg "kept kicking," says a lively Western paper, "the poor fellow's children orphans as far as paternal legs are concerned."

Alabama has made four new counties—Escambia, Geneva, Baker and Grant. The name of Barne County is changed to Etowah, and Jones to Sanford. There are now sixty-two counties in the State.

The Indian Bureau

There are, bands of savages have become a scourge to the nation simply because it has neglected or refused to accept the responsibilities which grew out of its relations to a conquered and barbarous race. We have failed to train them for citizens, and have left them to become a class we have failed to teach them the arts of civilized life and they have become paupers and vagrants with whom I never the less that savors institution the Indian Bureau we find diplomatic relations. The peoples of towns and counties are chiefly the victims of disease or accident or are helpless by reason of age. Our State papers are mostly the orphan children of emigrants who are taken care of till they are old enough to earn their living and are sent out to do it but the Indian in his native condition has a constitutional indisposition to labor, which may be regarded variously, as misfortune laziness, or total depravity. But, whether it be sin or misfortune, his government, with an indulgence which is more tender than wise, has practically exempted the red men from the operation of that law which says "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread." Idleness is his normal condition, and in spite of the horrid tragedies with which he fills the land, he is regarded, in official circles, not only a national pauper but a national pet.

The reason for this paradoxical condition is very simple. The Indian, in his present condition, is the occasion for the continuance of that peculiar institution the Indian Bureau, and the Bureau is capable of such management as to yield large profits to the managers. Let us see. There may be 225,000 Indian paupers, and the national overseers of the poor have them in charge. These philanthropists, who devote their lives to the interests of their red brethren would probably fix the figure much higher. But no matter. An error of ten or twenty thousand in the estimates of some wandering tribes of savages is of little account among thirty millions of white people. But when blankets and powder and buttons and other things, or funds with which to buy them, are served out by the government for 300,000 Indians, then if there are but 225,000 to be actually supplied, of course there is a little margin with which certain persons may reward themselves for their philanthropy. Who knows within ten or twenty thousand how many savages there are to be kept in blankets and powder and buttons and paint? When was a census ever taken? Annuities by the million are disbursed from the Treasury into the hands of the officers of the bureau for tribes of Indians, without any accurate knowledge of their number. Suppose a tribe becomes decimated or reduced one-half, as is the case with many tribes and bands, there is a further reward for the white men who care for their poor benighted brother. Besides all this, certain commercial interests are stimulated by the disbursements of the bureau. The Utes, for instance, need, say 2,500 red and white and blue blankets, and fifty or sixty other bands have need accordingly. How much is a "red" blanket worth? and a "white" blanket and a "blue" blanket? for these are the kinds of blankets called for in the advertisements of the bureau, with no other description, except that they are named Mackinac blankets, are three certain measurements in length and width. How much is a "gun" worth or a dozen quarts of brass ear-rings? Beyond all doubt, if inspectors are not impertinent (and far be it from us to accuse them of such an offense), these bills may be made a source of considerable gain to those who furnish supplies to the Indian Bureau especially if there are manufactories established to produce the peculiar qualities of goods required by the Indian market. Complaints have sometimes been made that the payment of annuities at certain times has been altogether omitted, but there seems to be nothing wrong in the accounts of disbursements at the Treasury. An Indian war is likely to come of this absorption of the annuities by the friends of the Indians into whose hands they pass, but that furnishes employment for idle soldiers, makes business for contractors, and reduces the number of the Indians, while the estimates of their numbers at the bureau remain unchanged, all of which is favorable to the official friends of the red man.

But what is left of the annuity is generally paid. The time and place are fixed, the tribe appears, the agents appear, and certain articles of comfort and luxury are dispensed as coming from the great father at Washington. Now is the time for another class of the friends of the red man to show their interest in his welfare, viz. the camp followers. The untutored savage has somehow learned the use of whisky, and his friends on this occasion have "heap whisky" for sale. Giving way to the charming freedom of his nature, the red man bargains most of his share of the annuity for that beverage. Indians are also great gamblers, and their friends indulge them in this amusement till the remainder of the annuities come into their possession, and the free children of nature are left for Mother Nature to take care of until the next annuities are paid.

It would be a wonder if the red man, whom no one has tried to teach the Christian virtue of rendering good for evil, should become enraged at such treatment, and wreak his vengeance on the first specimen of the hated race whom he might meet. All the agents of the bureau however are sure to be out of harm's way, and when the report of a massacre is spread abroad they charge the blame upon the frontiersmen, and inveigh loudly against the terrible doctrine of extermination which angry men, ignorant of the merits of the case are likely to advocate at such times. Extermination is however, just what is needed not of the Indians, but of the Indian Bureau.

There cannot be too dark a picture drawn of the moral condition of most of the nomadic tribes. There are no words to describe their indolence or their poverty, their filth their stolidity or their cruelty, but for every one of these traits they are worth a certain percentage to the members of the Indian ring. If they were taught to work they would soon rise above their position as paupers. The encouragement and cultivation of good farming lands would open new interests in life and bring the word "home" into their language. If the love of war could be snatched or worked out of the red blood they might be elevated to the position of decent citizens. But it is directly for the interest of the Indian Bureau that the Indian shall remain in the worst possible condition, and every advance they make in manners or prospects in the arts of life will to just so much reduction of profits to be realized by the managers of Indian affairs.

Can this state of things continue, when those whose profits are in the direct ratio of the degradation of a class of human beings, do not war against the possession which has been a stumbling block to their greed. Just the slave holders in the slave traders were not more directly interested in making a boast of the negro than is the Indian Bureau in making a boast of the Indian and keeping him in barbarism as all his race is utterly evident. When it comes to be understood that any statesman is at peace with barbarism, it is time for the government of a Christian nation to be progressing. All since it is evident that every measure set out to improve the condition of these savage outlaws and paupers in spite of the policy of the Indian Bureau, that institution must certainly be judged to have outlived its usefulness and forfeited its cause of life. Chicago Tribune.

Railroad Enterprises

The editor of the Salem Press has written at least one sensible paragraph, which we transfer to our columns:

The necessity of railroads—not only to the development of the unparalled resources of the State but to arouse in the people that spirit of enterprise and emulation which is calculated to promote the growth and prosperity of the State—is obvious to every intelligent man. It is just as apparent that the want of that one reliance for realizing the advantages of railroads is in capital and enterprise foreign to the State. To assail men who come here with the disposition and require means to engage in such an undertaking is a dog in the manger policy unworthy of an enlightened people. We do not say this in the interest of any man or company, but as a general principle. What we want and what the public interests demand is a railroad or all the roads which men with capital can be found to build. Mr. Ben. Holladay comes here with a national reputation for wealth and the prestige of success in all his business enterprises. He has given an earnest of his determination to build a railroad, by the expenditure of vast sums of money in grading and preparing for the superstructure over fifty miles of road, in having the ties and stringers sawed for nearly the same distance, and by keeping in the field several corps of engineers and surveyors on other portions of the proposed route. How much of this money has been furnished by citizens of Oregon? What citizen has been injured by it to the value of one dollar? What section of the country have the surveys passed through in which the price of all real property has not been greatly enhanced thereby, in the aggregate amounting to more than double the cost of the road when completed? Mr. Holladay's projected line of road to Oregon, from the Columbia river to the State line, will cost, when completed, not less than $10,000,000, and the most that has been asked of the citizens of Oregon, is stock subscriptions to the amount of ten per cent. This road, when completed, will add to the assessable value of the property of the State not less than $20,000,000, at the lowest estimate. What worse than folly it is then to assail the man and strive to defeat the project from whom and by which such incalculable advantages are offered to the people of the State.

Mrs. Grant.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Times says: "Mrs. Stover, Andrew Johnson's daughter, quietly and respectably took her departure for Tennessee, last week. Good opinion follows all the ladies of the White House under the passing administration. We feel the most perfect and serene confidence in the spirited, handsome and graceful lady who is to be the mistress of this mansion under General Grant. Her education, parentage, and social opportunities have abundantly qualified her to grace the White House. Her father, Mr. Dent, was the proprietor of an estate and a home comparable with any between New Orleans and St. Louis, in those days when that part of the world contained the gentleman planter par excellence. He spared no generous pains to make his boys influential and his girls accomplished.

Mrs. Grant was the flower of the family, and in her sagacity of head and heart, she was probably the first person in that land to express sympathy and appreciation of the quiet young cadet, her brother's classmate at West Point. She was the tried companion of his poverty and early struggles, and when the war bereaved her of him she manifested a constancy of confidence in his virtue and ability which never for one moment faltered. At the darkest periods of fortune, she believed in his star, and fought his praises in civil life as bravely as he followed the Southern cross in his campaigns. Josephine will have no longer homage when both Grant and Bonaparte have mellowed into history, than Mrs. Grant. Unlike Josephine, she has submitted to the decrees of good fortune with blameless modesty, and republican womanhood has no more exquisite examples at this day than Mrs. Grant.

Her care of her children, whom she teaches to be self-reliant as well as obedient, and the domestic and religious influence she exerts over her husband, are not unobserved here. The taste of her toilet, adopted to a naturally graceful and stately figure, has passed the gauntlet of the most invidious criticism. It is with more reason than the high estimate of his high sagacity that people predict of Gen. Grant a fortunate and happy administration, for behind his magistracy there

How to Treat Plants in Repotting.—The season for transplanting and setting in pots, shrubs and house plants, has not yet passed. Everybody loves these pleasant companions but every one understands how to manage them so as to secure healthy growth and fully developed bloom. Mr. R. Muller, one of our most successful horticulturists contributes the following directions: All plants that have been in pots a year must have fresh soil unless in large tubs or pots. The best soil for most plants is well decomposed turf two parts and one part, and old manure one part. The turf or sod is taken from old meadows, three or four inches of the top portion a heap about a year. Sand such as the plasterers use is the best. The manure should be well decomposed and the whole well mixed together. The top soil out of the woods is very good. I use that the most, but it requires more sand and some common soil to make it the lighter. Too much manure makes the plants weak and spindles. Plants are not all treated alike in this respect. Hydrangeas, Cannas, Fuchias and all bulbs that are kept dry during winter, are taken out, their roots well shaken off and re-potted in fresh earth. Plants in grass, that did not bloom well last year, must be taken out and their roots washed clean and repotted. Examine the roots for worms. They need much water through the summer and a shady place. Lady Washington Geraniums (Pelargoniums), Heliotropes, Roses and others have the ball of earth closely lined all around, put in the same pot again and filled up with fresh soil. Certain only necessary in potting every two years. If the plants are too far advanced for repotting take the top soil out of the pots till you come to the roots and fill up with the compost.

Now, as the plants are growing, is a good time to repot, but if they are in bloom do not disturb them. Merely take off the top soil, and replace with fresh compost. Plants that I send out in the spring need no re-potting till next fall or spring. Watering with manure water once a week is a great help to produce bloom buds, and frequent sprinkling over the leaves makes them healthy. After potting, set the plants in the shade for five or six days, till the roots have taken hold again. Callas put in fresh soil, after done blooming, can be brought in bloom again. When growing, keep them standing in a plat filled with water. If some of these hints are too late for this season, they may guide in the preparation of a suitable compost for next Autumn and Spring.

Hints in Dental Surgery.—It has only been a few years since anybody ever thought of using means to render dental surgery painless. Chloroform and ether were largely used a few years ago, but they were found to be dangerous, and surgeons began to look around for something else. It would seem that for all operations requiring but a short time, the discoveration has been found in "nitrous oxyde gas," now used by most dentists and many who keep up with the times. It is a modification of what we remember as "laughing gas." It used to be inhaled in small quantities and inhaled diluted with common air, in which case it acted principally on the nervous system, inducing uncontrollable laughter, a disposition to dance, frolic or fight according to the existing state of the mind. It was discovered by Dr. Priestly in 1775; is colorless, of a sweetish taste, and not unpleasant smell; is composed of the same elements as atmospheric air—nitrogen and oxygen—the difference being that oxygen exists in much larger proportion. It is to air what low wine is to proof spirits, and the effect of inhalation is simply intoxication, or "dead drunk" which passes off without headache or any other unpleasant consequences. Its application to dentistry and minor surgery is entirely a great achievement of science. It is found that this gas administered pure and undiluted by air produces entire insensibility in about one minute and then passes off in about the same time, which is long enough for ordinary cases of extracting. In the Colton Institute in New York where it is used extensively they have a record of eight thousand cases without an accident; so it may be considered absolutely safe. The leading dentists of this city use it frequently and with great success. A day or two since Dr. Cardwell showed us an office apparatus, got up by himself for his practice, by which a large quantity of gas is generated, purified, and preserved for an indefinite time for use. A large receiver is connected by rubber tubing to his chair, where it is taken through a rubber inhaler. Altogether, we think it a perfect arrangement.

From Vancouver.—The subjoined items are from the News: At a regular meeting of the Vancouver Hibernian Benevolent Society, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: P. H. Fox, President; John O'Kean, Vice President; Ed. O'Kean, Recording Secretary; David Wall, Corresponding Secretary; John McNulty, Treasurer.....The appeal on the Minnie Ha Ha, to be made on Capt. Turnbull's return from San Francisco, will cost $5,000.....Miss Ellen Hadden, a young girl, aged fourteen, living in the family of Mr. Cox, of this place, fell down some steps in front of Maney's baker's shop, in this town, on Thursday, and fractured her arm.....Capt. Turnbull and P. O'Keane, who have been sojourning for some time in San Francisco, returned to this place last Thursday on the Ajax.....On last Saturday a soldier by the name of Flannigan was arrested as an accessory to the burglary and assault upon Mrs. Wesley by the soldier Seymour, an account of which we published last week. He was taken before Justice Boalt, who committed him to await the action of the Grand Jury. According to the evidence of Seymour, he instigated and advised the commission of the crime. We learn that he was afterwards discharged from jail and placed under the surveillance of his commanding officer, who undertook to produce him for trial in the event of the finding of an indictment.

Board of Delegates.—A special meeting of the Board of Delegates of the Fire Department, was held at the Council Chamber, last evening, President Boyd in the chair.

The report of Cemetery Committee was received, and the work of Wm Young—enclosing the Firemen's plot in Lone Fir with stone posts and chain—was accepted.

The following Committees were appointed to serve the ensuing year.

Judiciary—B. L. Norden, Chairman, C. Ball, R. J. Crawford.

Finance—P. D. W. Hardenbergh, Chairman; S. C. Mills, A. B. Richardson.

Fuel—R. Holman, Chairman, Thos. Moffett, Joseph Kelly.

Engineers—A. B. Hallock, Chairman; Al Zieber, F. M. Arnold.

Delinquents—S. C. Mills, Chairman; F. M. Arnold, C. C. Hall.

Circuit Court—Deady, J.—Monday, April 12—Newby vs. East Side Railroad Co., et al. This is a suit brought by a bondholder of the West Side Co. to enjoin the East Side from using the name—"The Oregon Central Railroad Co." The suit was argued on Friday last upon ten exceptions to the complaint for impertinence. On Saturday the court gave judgment against the exceptions.

The decision was announced orally. In the course of it the court remarked, that while the right of the defendant to question to exercise corporate powers could only be directly determined at the suit of the State, yet that any question involving the corporate existence of the Company, or its organization, or corporate conduct of material to the determination of this suit, might be enquired into and for the purposes of this determined. The demurrers have until the first Monday in May to demur or answer the bill.

The First Instance.—The steamer outgoing to-day will take only part of a cargo—the first instance of the kind in many months. The reason of it is stated to be the low price and lack of demand for flour and grain at San Francisco. Shippers find that there is no object to be gained by hurrying forward consignments by steamer, upon which the freight charges are higher than by sail. They may just as well put their freight afloat on a sailer, at less freight charges, and take the chances on time, as to rush it through by steamer and pay storage, after arrival at San Francisco. This state of things may endure for a considerable time, as there is no sign of any immediate improvement in the markets.

Cue Fido Theater.—The comedy of "Sam" was played last evening, for the last time, with the former cast, and though the inspiration of a crowded house was wanting, it went off with excellent spirit.

To-night, the popular drama of "The Octoroon," in which Mr. Wheatleigh takes the character of Salem Scudder, and Mrs. Bates the star character of Zoe; supported by a strong cast of the entire company.

Personal.—We learn from a reliable source, says the Argus, that H. C. Victor, Esq., has returned from the Fegie Islands, by the way of Sydney, and is in San Francisco and will shortly return to St. Helens. Mrs. Victor is in New York publishing her works entitled "The North Pacific," and "Life of Colonel Joe Meek." They are meeting a rapid sale, as great interest is awakened in the States respecting this coast.

Fire at Salem.—Mr. Brown, who came down from Salem yesterday, informs us that the cooper shop in the rear of the Mammoth livery stable was discovered to be on fire about two o'clock yesterday morning. A fire alarm was rung and the engine was got out, but before it reached the place the fire was subdued by an active use of buckets. It was a narrow escape for a valuable block of buildings.

Circuit Court.—A special term of the Circuit Court began yesterday morning, Judge Upton presiding. The case of Clackamas county vs. The People's Transportation Co. was set for trial this morning.

The report of H. C. Bronaugh, referee, in twenty-three cases against the steamer Wright was filed.

A few other equity cases will be heard during the term.

Low Water.—The Cowlitz river has got the prevailing complaint—low water. Capt. Fisher reports the water too low for the Cowlitz. The Rescue, however, was to try the trip to Pumphrey's yesterday. The Cowlitz heads in the St. Helens mountain and will not rise till we have several days of weather warm enough to melt the snows.

Insurance Effected.—The County Commissioners effected an insurance, yesterday, upon the Court House and jail to the amount of $40,000. The policies are secured by the following companies: Union $5,000; North British and Mercantile $7,500; Imperial, $7,500; Phœnix, $7,500, and Pacific $12,000.

Delinquent Taxes of 1868.—The delinquent tax list for 1868 has been returned, showing an aggregate delinquency of $16,491 53. An order was directed to the Commissioners, yesterday, to the Clerk, to issue a warrant to the Sheriff for the collection of the same.

County Commissioners' Court.—Most of the day yesterday was spent by the Commissioners in auditing accounts.

The resignation of A. H. Johnson as supervisor of the 18th road district was received, no successor appointed.

Barn Burned.—A barn belonging to Mr. Wm. H. Martin, was burned to the ground a few days since. It was full of hay and oats, and the loss sustained by the owner was not less than five hundred dollars.

Notice to Delinquents.—An advertisement from the Secretary of the Odd Fellows' Hall Association, calls upon all stockholders who are delinquent for assessments, to call at his office and settle.

For San Francisco.—The steamship Ajax will sail for San Francisco, at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Walter Scott.—It is proposed in Great Britain to celebrate, by a grand display, the centennial anniversary of the birth of the great novelist, Walter Scott, which will occur on August 15th, 1871. From the length of the time allowed for the preparations it is very probable that a festival is proposed similar to the "Shakspeare Jubilee," projected by David Garrick, and celebrated at Stratford on Avon, September 6th 7th, 1769. The programme consisted of representations of Shakspeare's plays and made an imposing appearance. A Shakspeare festival was also kept April 23d, 24th and 25th, 1864—Scott was a very prolific writer, and the heroes and heroines of his poems and romances brought together on the same stage would present a vivid picture of the dress, language, manners and customs of Scotland, England, France, Switzerland, Burgundy, Palestine and Italy. A masque (society would contribute representatives with strongly marked characteristics. Should the plan of a Scott Jubilee be put in execution, it would require long and careful preparation to carry out the idea properly.

Simple as Rolling.—Hundreds of families in all parts of the United States are using Brown's Household Panacea, and find it a safe remedy for the most violent attacks of pain, and has caused them to be loud in its praise. Instances of Sufferers and Public Speakers, especially, finding it a friend of the Throat caused by Colds and Several Exertion of the vocal organs in speaking in public. Druggists, they procure them at the lowest rates.

Night School.—Mr. Fitzgerald has opened a Night School in the South-east corner of the Oath Church. For Terms see the Teacher.

Manufactory Established in June, 1851.
STEAM POWER NOS 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

The intrinsic merit and always uniform good condition of the excellent quality of his Coffee neglects nothing to justify the confidence acquired by his preparations, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of the merchandise which commands there, and in the markets of the Interior a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day here is increasing the number of those who, by unscrupulous imitations of the mark seek to deceive the public, pushing off upon their infernal productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. The fraud and deception practiced in this line only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned and placed on their guard against this practice.

HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER
HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive
Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.
He respectfully refers to the following
CARD.
Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.
It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.
It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

Partisan Blindness

Opposition to the negro has almost annihilated the Democratic party. Since 1854 that party has continually made the negro question almost the sole political issue, and it has as continually been beaten upon the issue thus presented. One defeat has followed another in rapid succession, and in every varied shape in which the negro question has been brought before the country the result has been the same. First, the introduction of negro slaves into free territory was checked and forbidden. Next, negro slavery was utterly abolished. Then a constitutional amendment was adopted making all negroes citizens. The next step was negro suffrage in the South to secure reconstruction on a loyal basis. And now the final act is the proposed fifteenth amendment designed to give all citizens the elective franchise without distinction of race or color. At every step this onward movement has been opposed by the Democratic party, and we now find them fighting against the fifteenth amendment with the same blind, obstinacy which has characterized their opposition to the measures already accomplished. They have not had enough of the negro yet but must have one more "mill" with him, even though it is certain that the result will be the same which has been witnessed so uniformly in this contest during the last fifteen years.

But of all the acts of blind folly which Democrats have committed in the course of this long warfare against the negro, the most blind and senseless is their present action in the Indians Legislature. A few members of that body appear to think that they have the power to check this long-continued movement, to defeat the fifteenth amendment, to arrest the progress of the Republican party and to make anti-negro Copperheadism triumphant! It is amazing that reasoning men should be guilty of such a blunder. But the most unreasoning of mortals are those small politicians whose stock of political ideas consists mainly or solely of discourses on the curvature of the negro's shin-bone, the angularities of his skull and the odor of his cuticular exudations. They are incapable of learning that this gibberish is no answer at all to the spontaneous sentiment of the country in favor of human justice. With or without Indiana, the suffrage amendment will be ratified. Heretofore the Democrats have lost in every appeal they have made to the people against the negro; and this will be their fate again. A sufficient number of States are already sure to make, with those to be reconstructed this summer, the three-fourths required by the Constitution. It will take ten States to defeat the amendment, and this number cannot possibly be obtained.

Conventions.

The propensity to hold conventions is one of the striking peculiarities of the American people. We can hardly suppose that to a foreigner this trait of Americans would sometimes appear very singular and often excessively ridiculous. We have conventions religious, political and scientific; we meet to discuss social science, the problems of trade and the phenomena of every ism under the sun. The propensity pervades all classes. Theorists want a chance to spread their remarkable opinions before the world; scientists are actuated by a spirit of keen inquiry and desire to avail themselves of the experience and suggestions of each other; capitalists and commercial projectors wish to combine for the purpose of carrying great schemes into operation; farmers want to talk of wool and gang-plows; benevolent gentlemen whose scalps were never in danger take a great interest in "the poor Indian;" religious enthusiasts think it high time to be getting ready for the millennium,—and all these people straightway hold conventions where they can expatiate and confer on their favorite topics. We have had national base-ball conventions, and no doubt a convention of velocipedists will be the next announced. Sometimes this propensity for conventions takes a direction which even Americans must consider ludicrous. For instance, not long ago the prisoners in the Maine penitentiary, with the permission of the warden, held a meeting to consider the question of capital punishment. The officers of the meeting were all persons who were under sentence of death for murder; a resolution was passed appealing "to the humane, Christian citizens of the State in behalf of society itself, not to go back a quarter of a century and re-establish that relic of barbarism, the gallows;" and a committee of two, both convicted of capital crimes, was commissioned to lay the matter before the Legislature! Here, certainly, a foreigner would suppose that an American characteristic was very broadly displayed.

In this country where every man participates in public affairs a feeling of personal importance is developed more or less in each individual. Almost every person thinks it his province to enlighten his neighbors. He prides himself on having opinions and the world must have the benefit of them. While we cannot claim as a people to have made more advancement in learning and arts than several other civilized nations, it is probably true that there is more learning diffused among the masses of the people in this country than in almost any other. The holding of conventions for all sorts of purposes is a feature of the busy life of America, a practice which furnishes an escape-valve for the American intellect and prevents stagnation;—for have we not the authority of a quaint English poet for the remark that,—

> Thoughts shut up want air,
> And spoil like bales unopened to the sun

The Spoils of Victory

The ex-organ of A. Johnson, the National Intelligencer, is much distressed about some of President Grant's appointments. The Commercial of this city reprints from that paper a long wail over the appointment of a woman who is objectionable to the chivalry, to be postmistress at Richmond.

Now we would merely suggest that in old times when the Democrats controlled the patronage, they did not stop to inquire what appointments would be acceptable to their opponents. They gave themselves no trouble on that head. They arranged these matters to suit their own convenience and profit, and replied with insults every remonstrance made by their political opponents. In 1860 every Federal office in the country was an outpost of the propagandists of slavery.

It is an old Democratic doctrine that "to the victors belong the spoils." Aaron Burr, taking some hints from Walpole, was the first American who worked to reduce this principle to a system. Jefferson did a good deal to introduce it from Burr's sphere in New York into the practice of the General Government. Afterwards in New York Van Buren built upon Burr, and elaborated the system to various perfection. He taught it thoroughly to his superior, General Jackson. Mr Van Buren's apt pupil, Mr Marcy, characterized the principle by the pat phrase "To the victors belong the spoils," and did not scruple to put it in practice wherever he could. In those times every dissentient official from Maine to Florida, holding a place worth having, was ousted, and the Democratic principle fully enforced.

Such being the history of this matter it scarcely becomes Democrats to be expending about the appointments which are now being made, or to tender any advice on the subject.

Mailable Matter

By the following from the Postal Service Mail for March, touching one of the rulings made by Judge Deady in the Randall case it will be seen that the decision that gold dust is mailable matter is supported by precedent and rests "on justice and common sense."

On the 11th of November last, E. G. Randall, postmaster at Portland, Oregon, was arrested by Special Agent Quincy A. Brooks, on a charge of opening a registered letter and stealing therefrom twelve ounces of gold dust. On November 22d, he was brought to trial, but the jury, being unable to agree, were discharged, and a second trial began on January 6th, was continued for several days, and resulted in the conviction of the defendant. His counsel at once filed a motion for a new trial, on account of certain alleged errors in the ruling of the Court as to the admission of evidence, etc., and also a motion in arrest of judgment, "because the facts stated in the indictment do not constitute a crime, in this—that gold dust is not mailable matter."

These motions were argued before Hon. Matthew P. Deady, Judge of the U. S. District Court for the District of Oregon, who, on January 23d, delivered his opinion in the case, overruling the motion for a new trial, and also the motion in arrest of judgment.

(Here follows an extract from Judge Deady's opinion, containing his argument on this point, which we omit, having already published it.—ED. OREGONIAN.)

The decision of Judge Deady in the above case is similar to to that of Judge Smalley, in the case of the United States vs. Curry, tried in the U. S. Circuit Court at New York in 1867, in which the defendant was indicted for the embezzlement from the mail of a packet containing articles of jewelry, and is moreover plainly in accordance with justice and common sense.

Small Notes.

We hear that there is a good deal of dissatisfaction among the people of Washington Territory on account of the appointment of Flanders as Governor. It would seem, certainly, that a more suitable and acceptable man might have been selected.

In his speech at Nashville A. Johnson made the astonishing declaration that he does not pretend to be infallible! Now this is the very climax of modesty. Such language is singular, indeed, coming from the mouth of the man who during four years assumed all the functions of government, legislative, executive and judicial, and refused to allow Congress any part whatever in the work of reconstruction.

The St. Louis Democrat is of opinion that the time is coming "when men who continually boast of their white skin will be suspected of having nothing else to boast of," and makes a severe cut at Dan Voorhees, of Indiana, who appears to think that "the proudest thing about him is the color he possesses in common with the meanest knave he ever saved from the gallows!"

The House before adjournment passed the disgraceful resolution of sympathy for the Cuban insurgents. Yet this same House complains because Great Britain sympathized with the American rebels! The cause of the Cuban insurgents may be the "holy one of liberty," and all that, but in the present shape of the quarrel between that island and the mother country, it is none of our business, and it is a disgrace to the American people for their Representatives to adopt such a resolution. The President and Senate will not second such conduct.

The President has discovered that Elwood Evans, of Washington Territory, attended the Copper-Johnson Convention at Philadelphia in 1866; therefore the said Elwood will not get an office. We have some curiosity to know who recommended him for an appointment. Let these Philadelphia patriots look at A. Johnson for support. The infamy of their conduct will be remembered against them and their descendants to the fourth generation. There was no occasion for any honest man to err or to mistake his duty in 1866, when a recreant President was trying to destroy the party which had preserved the country.

A PARTY ADMINISTRATION.—We have heretofore suggested that only a party administration can be successful; and certainly the history of the country fully sustains this view. As General Grant is a practical man and not a dreaming theorist, he makes his administration a party one and therefore has the fairest prospect of unbounded success. Just before Grant's inauguration "A Veteran Observer," writing to the New York Times, said, "I think the coming administration will be as strong a party one as the country has had in thirty years. You will look in vain for the thing called conservatism in the coming Senate. There will be conservatism of the right kind—conservatism of great principles, but not yielding an iota of principle. When you reflect that Grant believes in an American policy, and no pliancy toward foreign nations, that he will enforce the reconstruction acts to the letter, and that he will not oppose Congress, you will see that there will be no departure from the principles of the Republican party.

THE INDIAN BUREAU.—We reproduce to-day from the editorial columns of the Chicago Tribune an article on this subject which is well worth perusal. The Denver News says it was written by a gentleman who spent a portion of last summer in Colorado, and is making preparations to repeat his visit the coming summer. In the meantime he is temporarily upon the editorial staff of the Tribune for the especial purpose of writing up the Indian question. The fact that a prominent Eastern journal publishes such articles under the head of editorial matter, marks a gratifying change in public sentiment in favor of the rights of Western pioneers. By slow degrees the old superstition that the Indian is the perfection of human nature, and can do nothing wrong except under justifiable provocation, is giving way to more enlightened knowledge of the true situation. Every visitor to the West who has the capacity to observe, and the honesty to tell what he sees, assists to dispel the illusion. May the good work go on and prosper.

There is a law in Ohio providing that cities of 20,000 inhabitants or over shall be authorized to levy a tax of one-tenth of a mill in order to establish a free library. Among others, Cleveland has taken action under this law and now without appreciable expense, a library of five or six thousand volumes has been gathered in the Forest City, whose doors are thrown freely open to the poor. This is a truly educational institution, in the best sense of the word.

The following is a copy of a love letter addressed by a determined swain to his lady-love in San Jose: "Levon years is rather long to kort a gal, but ile hav you yit, Cate."

THE WEST

Four Mormon apostates from Truckee were left behind by the stages.

Two more stages are soon in operation between Carson and Reno.

The omnibus line between Gold Hill and Virginia has been reduced to two hours.

There arrived at San Francisco by sea during the month ending March 31st 2,[illegible] passengers. The departures in the same time were 4,[illegible]. During the same period last year there arrived [illegible] and departed [illegible].

Hon. Garrett S. Brown of the Mechanics' Institute Industrial Exhibition of San Francisco announces that the Seventh Industrial Exhibition will open in the City of San Francisco on Tuesday, the 14th day of September, 1869, at 11 o'clock A. M. with appropriate ceremonies.

On the report of Surgeon M. H. [illegible], the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has declared that the Federal Assessors are not authorized by law or in any other way to treat vendors of water for mining purposes as wholesale and retail dealers, according to the amount of their sales.

The Virginia City Enterprise of April 2d has a scathing editorial on the frauds practised on the Government and people by the Union Pacific Railroad Company, concluded by expressing the hope that the Central Pacific managers will be able to show a cleaner record.

The Atlantic and Pacific States Telegraph Company advertise for proposals for building lines for them to Marysville, Grass Valley and Nevada in California, and from Reno to Ogden, a distance of 392 miles on the line of the Overland Railroad, and also to White Pine.

L. P. Hall's [illegible], a genuine Democratic paper, published weekly at Chico, Cal. has given up the ghost. The editor says in his parting address: "To-day becomes the last discharge from its service. Further to-day its last wail over the fate of gallant Dixie as ends in Heaven."

The United States mail route agents on the Central Pacific Railroad, receive but $100 a month—in legal tenders, we suppose—and board and clothe themselves! Their business is to throw off the way bags at the proper stations and to open the bundle and assort certain classes of letters. They will be kept busy as natters all the time they are on the cars. It is an office not much to be sought after.

Last Tuesday morning, says the Sacramento Union of April 2d, while a gravel train from Folsom was running at a high rate of speed, near Patterson's Station a Chinaman was observed to jump from one of the cars to get his hat, which had blown off. He struck upon his feet, but fell backward upon his head. He was picked up, and being found to have sustained severe injuries, was taken back to Folsom on the return train, where he died during the evening.

OVERLAND MAIL AND PASSENGER ROUTES.—A gentleman who has just arrived in this city with his wife from the East via the Overland route, gives us the following information respecting a portion of it. They passed along very pleasantly till they reached Cheyenne and Laramie, where they encountered the snow belt. On the 7th and 8th of March two or three trains were run through to Laramie, and on the 9th of March five trains arrived at the latter place from the West, and on the evening of the same day a train left Laramie for the West. Our informant and wife were among the passengers. The remainder of the route to Elko was traversed without difficulty, except that the stage road was very heavy in places. Passengers and mails are not carried across the country between the two terminal points of the railroad, a distance of little over 100 miles, but are conveyed over a road about 436 miles in length, and which tends far South of Salt Lake City and then northerly to Elko. To construct a road across from point to point would involve considerable expense, and all the stations on the present long route would have to be removed, at considerable cost. Consequently the company prefers and probably finds it more profitable to carry the mails around—but the Government and public suffer.

The most serious obstacle on the stage route is Steptoe slough, about two days travel beyond Elko. When our informant and the rest of the passengers reached this slough, the ladies and a quantity of the express matter were loaded into a rough wagon. To this wagon were attached ten yokes of oxen, and the male passengers were informed that they must wade the slough. A sick man asked permission to ride through it, but the drivers told him if he could not wade he must remain. In places the men sank to their arm pits in water and alkali mud, and some of them lost their shoes. After getting through—a distance of three miles—they were obliged to go seven miles further before reaching a station. No efforts have been made or are making to bridge this slough, and much of the rest of the road is permitted to remain in a very bad condition.—San Francisco Bulletin, April 1.

INDEPENDENT JOURNALISM.—The Cincinnati Gazette, one of the ablest Republican papers in the West, has been exposing the corruption of certain Republican Congressmen, and, in consequence, has been assailed for a lack of political orthodoxy. It replies defiantly:

"Our course astonishes these journals, because of their narrow idea of the business of journalism; but the practice of freely discussing and criticising the public men and measures of the Republican party has been so long used in the Gazette, that the present generation of readers is not surprised at the largest liberty in its exercise. This is our notion of independent journalism. Of course no such course is possible for a Democratic journal. And, on the other side, there is now and then a journal which has got a sore head on account of some omission in the distribution of the party benefits, and which thereupon is continually showing its sore, and calling it independent journalism. And there is another class which imagine that a lack of principles and a habit of unscrupulous abuse is independent journalism, and which, therefore, is continually holding up its foulness and folly, and bragging of them as independence. To us, the best evidence of independent journalism is the capacity to think independently on all public affairs, and the habit of judging them on their merits, without regard to their paternity. A journal which has this quality does not need to be continually professing its independence, nor to hold up envy, hatred, malice and general uncleanness as proofs of independent journalism."

A RECONSTRUCTED REBEL.—The New York correspondent of the Chicago Tribune says of Roger A. Pryor: "Eight years ago, when Roger A. Pryor strutted through Main street, Richmond, all eyes turned to follow him, and such remarks reached his ears as helped to swell even his inordinate vanity. To-day he walks through Nassau street to his office, and in that crowded lane no one is conscious of his presence, and few would know who he is if he were named. After the surrender of Lee and Johnston, he came North, and has lived here ever since. He says the South was whipped—that he has accepted the situation—but the bitter past is behind him and gone to work, as I think it would be much better if his late companions in arms would do likewise. Between Pryor has little of the old swagger, the overweening vanity, the supreme self-consciousness of other days. He takes no part in politics; writes no letters, gives no counsel—but very wisely keeps silence, and submits gracefully to the inevitable. Pryor as a picturesque looking brunette, straight, erect and graceful in figure, has an intellectual face, with pure prominent features, wears his hair long and behind his ears, is an interesting and fine talker, abounding in anecdotes, and seems a very pleasant fellow. He has a wife and family, and is struggling to practice [illegible]. On the whole, he is one of the best specimens I know of [illegible] and shows how much [illegible] and may be when he has the pleasure [illegible]."

RUSSIAN DUCHESS.—A correspondent of the New York Tribune gives the following gossip concerning the present whereabouts of several rebel leaders, and what they are doing:

Longstreet is recovering from an illness which at one period of the night was almost fatal. Stephens was also crushed to death the other day by the falling of a gate. Johnston is preaching Swedenborgianism and explaining how Swedenborg made his journey to heaven and hell; how he passed the [illegible] and how he returned. Gordon is living in a log shanty near Macon making a subsistence by selling brew. Dr. Mason is making love to a young widow, daughter of the late Thomas Butler King, and intends to marry her, and with far greater profit, than he used to destroy them during the little difficulty.

The most disagreeable of all short stops—Railway collisions.

Stockton Dispatch.

STOCKTON, April 12.—At about half past six o'clock this evening a man named J. A. McNulty went into the Exchange saloon on the corner of Main and El Dorado streets. The barkeeper had just lit some half dozen large kerosene lamps and left them on the counter prior to his placing them in their proper places. McNulty staggered up to the counter and drew the lamps towards him, upsetting them all over his person. In a very few seconds he was all in a blaze, but owing to the presence of mind of some gentlemen present who took off their coats and placed them around him, the fire was very quickly extinguished, not however before the unfortunate man was severely, if not fatally burned. Under supervision of the county physician he was removed to the hospital. McNulty has only been in this city a few days and is a harness maker by trade.

FROM THE NORTH.

VICTORIA, April 12.—The steamer Otter, 9 days from Fort Smithson, arrived yesterday. The Indians in the vicinity of Naas river are fighting among themselves. Nothing further of interest.

The steamer Geo. S. Wright will sail to morrow for Sitka.

THE NEW ADMINISTRATION has filled the various offices; so have BARMAN BROS., filled their spacious store, corner Front and Morrison Streets, with the Latest Styles of Merchant Tailoring Goods, consisting of French Cassimeres, Beaver, Broadcloths and all kinds of Vestings, also a fine Stock of Ready Made Clothing, and Gents' Furnishing Goods, which they are enabled to sell lower than any other House in their city, as their Mr Isaac Barman is constantly in the San Francisco market, purchasing at the most advantageous prices, of which their customers always have the benefit. Go and see them—no trouble to show goods.

DEATH! DEATH!—Adulteration, Sure Death.—The World newspaper has exposed the vast amount of deleterious adulteration of liquors and groceries, but in the Drug business it is carried on to a greater extent, thus producing Death, in consequence of physicians not obtaining the desired results from their remedies. The Drugs and Medicines at the Oregon Dispensary are fresh and pure, hence all of our first class Doctors prefer our store to any other in this city.

LORVEA & KALLENBURG,
Oregon Dispensary, 73 First street.

GREAT EXCITEMENT.—The constant buzz of activity at KOHN & FISHEL'S yesterday, was occasioned by the receipt and opening of a very large and complete stock of Clothing and Furnishing Goods—Spring Styles—purchased and sent up from San Francisco, by Mr Fishel, who is acknowledged to be one of the best judges of that line of goods, doing business in this city. Call and see the Spring Styles.

INSTRUCTIONS IN THE ART OF PROPOSING.

A very good-looking, slender, innocent-appearing girl was brought "up" yesterday, in company with a young man who looked vastly ashamed of himself, and had the expression of "one who wants to go home." The charge against Julia and Percy was an ugly one. The officer stated that he had seen Percy enter her room, had waited patiently with his ear at the door till he heard a kiss, and then, breaking it open, had found him with his arm around her neck.

The officer was praised for his vigilance in the detection of contraband kisses, that seducingly dangerous article, and will, doubtless, arrest the next young man he sees blowing kisses at Pocahontas at the door of a cigar shop.

The Justice looked at Miss Julia through his spectacles, and it seemed as if his hard judicial glances underwent some chemical change as they passed through the glass—became polarized, if you please—and suggested to her the propriety of explaining her conduct—not that it would make any difference, but then it was well to follow the way of the world.

Miss Julia then proceeded to inform his Honor that a short time before she had been left motherless, was thrown upon her own resources. She had no husband and saw the way to none. She did not like to sew; she did not want to spoil her hands with hard work; for a hand once enlarged is not susceptible of reduction. A large hand was a bad habit which one could not easily get rid of. But her wits were good, and by them she proposed to live, and if possible transmute the vagrant humors of her brain into cake and clothes. After thinking a temporarily expensive process, since it led to the pawning of some of her clothes, she came to a conclusion.

She reasoned that whatever men might be when associated with one another, they were frequently great fools when brought in contact with women. Yet she did not believe that this folly was ingrain, but that it was for lack of knowing better. Then she went a step further, and assumed that these men would like to know better, and were foolish only for lack of one to teach them otherwise. She had the wisdom they needed, and they the money she needed—why should there not be an exchange?

The work was a noble one, for he or she who uproots a folly is nobler than he or she who destroys a thousand Canada thistles.

To prove her assertions, she felt that she must advertise. So this young alchemist turned a couple of skirts and some other trifles into a dollar, procured a handkerchief's worth of [illegible]—and thus advertising that a lady of polished address, reduced circumstances, and formed social advantages, desired to give lessons in etiquette and the way of conversing with ladies, to any young [illegible] who did not feel at ease in the society of the opposite sex. Tuition to [illegible].

The advertisement was a success. She saw young men who had a lack for feminine topics [illegible] the nice construction of the hands and the proper size of the feet. She had made a way, and, waxing fat with prosperity, had [illegible] her old friends, the pawnbrokers, [illegible] returning their little [illegible] cards. There was redemption.

One day [illegible] He stated that he was [illegible] get on as fast as he desired. [illegible] He [illegible] he would [illegible] not. He had [illegible] will power [illegible] will [illegible] but [illegible] he would [illegible] may [illegible] still [illegible] and the [illegible] approved trifler's [illegible] standing before a mirror, he [illegible] and his [illegible] that he was pigeon-livered and had gall, which was a relief, but not a [illegible]. Thus he went to Julia for aid, and the [illegible] dy, who had money never appealed to that disinterested young girl in vain.

She [illegible] him the lore of proposal—not the one by letter, for that she spurned, "like any [illegible]." She instructed him the [illegible] the [illegible], the pre[illegible]tory, the tearful, the [illegible] with [illegible], and the "[illegible] and [illegible]" proposal, to say nothing of the [illegible], which may be made in a horse and [illegible], behind the organ, or at the [illegible].

They [illegible] rehearsing one of these forms [illegible] the [illegible], a gentleman of course, but who [illegible] instruction as to the way of entering a lady's room, burst in upon her. She [illegible] immediate liberation.

His [illegible] stated that it was a curious case and a [illegible] one. He would put her [illegible] to test. The Court had just procured a divorce [illegible] his wife, and was intending to [illegible] another. But the Court was not [illegible] in the way to win 'em, or had forgotten [illegible] art. The prisoner could be [illegible] $10, but the fine would be suspended if she would give the Court a series of five lessons in the art of proposing. Would she accept?

She would.

The Court then declared its opinion to be that the maiden was innocent, and discharged her. As for Mr. Percy, he should fine him $10 to show him that justice might wink, but did not slumber.—Chicago Tribune.

[illegible] the mayor of Paris, is a dull looking man, inclined to obesity, and conceals his bald [illegible] under a somewhat eccentric-looking wig. It is thought in well-informed circles in Paris that his stories about the immense sums which he [illegible] the leading ladies of the aristocracy owe him are unfounded, and that he charges them very moderate prices for arranging their toilettes in order to remain in vogue. The gudgeons whom he flees most unmercifully are the wives and daughters of the parvenus, who are anxious to gain access to the Imperial Court and to the circle of aristocracy. For assisting such ladies and giving the last finish to their ball [illegible] he receives three to five thousand francs. The only man in Paris who ever [illegible] Worth's impudence was Prince Napoleon. He [illegible] used to come into his wife's [illegible] one day when Worth was just giving directions to the Princess about the manner of wearing a new fanny costume. Prince Napoleon, who had never seen and heard Worth, was amazed at his imperious and insolent tone, rang the bell and told the footman to show him out and never to admit him again. Worth went directly to the Empress to complain of the insulting treatment he had received at the hands of the Prince, but he was [illegible] able to obtain any satisfaction.

Paragraphs relating to women are inserted in the Vicksburg Herald under the head of "Grecian Bend Bureau."
